

CLAIM:

I claim as my invention:

1. An article of eyewear that does not have any sidepieces, straps, or temple-pieces which may apply any pressure, force, or stress whatsoever anywhere on or around the human head (irrespective of the eyewear's style or design).
2. A noseclip, nosebridge, or nosepiece that can hold an article of eyewear which does not have sidepieces, straps, or temple-pieces to the nose of a wearer of such an article of eyewear through the application of pressure onto the left and right sides of the wearer's nose.
